

Kitchen Duty Week

Forskarbacken 17
Floor 2

Abstract

When it is your turn to guard the kitchen, maybe you will start to wonder what this duty really means. This is a simple guide to what you should do during this week so that your corridor mates will be happy.

What You Should Try to do Every Day

- Take out the garbage under the sink and put in new plastic bags in the containers.
- Empty the dish racks.
- Make sure the kitchen counters and the tables are clean.
- Make sure the stoves and ovens are clean.

What You Should do at Least Once During the Week

- Sweep (or vacuum) the kitchen and corridor floor.
- Clean the floors with wet mop.
- Empty all of the recycling bins (metal/paper/plastic/glass).

What Everybody Else Should do

- Keep it as clean as possible during kitchen use.
- Correctly sort their garbage into the recycling bins.
- Wash up their dishes.

Final Tip

If you for some reason cannot fulfill your kitchen duties some day/weekend, try to make a deal with some of your corridor mates. Maybe it is possible to trade a kitchen duty day for a dinner/hug or to simply swap weeks.

Final Final Tip

This document (and its source code) is available at http://github.com/alneberg/kitchen_duty, for improvements or additions, a pull request is the recommended way to proceed.